The Honorable William Casey
Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C. 20505

Dear Director Casey:

On Wednesday, January 19, 1983, the National Center for Legislative Research is sponsoring it's first "State of the Union Conference" at the Four Seasons Hotel here in Washington, D.C.

The day-long Conference is being held for over 200 conservative writers, scholars and business leaders. We are also inviting all conservative Congressmen, Senators and their Legislative Assistants.

This program has been designed as a forum for the leaders within the Executive and Legislative Branches of government to discuss with conservative scholars and business leaders the major domestic and foreign policy questions that will be addressed over the next two years.

I would like to invite you to speak at our afternoon session. Your speech should be between fifteen and thirty minutes in length and we will allow a short period of time after your remarks for questions. I would like for you to address the subject of the "Role of the Intelligence Community in Shaping American Foreign Policy.

The National Center for Legislative Research is a tax-exempt public policy research institute. I am enclosing a copy of our most recent publication.

I hope you will be able to join us on January 19, 1983.

I will call your office within the next few days.

Sincerely,

PAUL DIETRICH
